Landscape Information Concerning Deer

Deer Resistant Online Plant Encyclopedia

My interest in horticulture started when the local deer virtually ate everything I planted one year. I obtained several lists of plants deer supposedly didn't eat. However, I didn't know what any of the Latin botanical names meant and recognized very few of the English names. In addition, none of these plant lists provided any information about the plants, let alone pictures (Membership is required to view the pictures, characteristics and applications). Out of necessity, I started to study plants just to be able to use these lists. Ever since then I have dreamed of creating a online plant encyclopedia of deer resistant plants that the average person can use without making a career change and becoming a horticulturist.

If you have a specific plant in mind, then you can search by its Common Name or Botanical Name.

If you're looking for a specific type of plant, then search by Plant Characteristics.

If you'd like to see what works in your yard, then search by Garden Characteristics

If you would like if you want to see all of the plants for your area, then search by Zone

If you'd like to take a look at range of plants, you can Browse the online plant encyclopedia.

If you want to know some of the plants to avoid, then look at the "Deer Food" page.
